"The Revolutionary Insurrection in Spain".The present invention relates to a bidirectional rotary displacement converter having both a fundamental-frequency inverter in series with a position regulating arrangement and a high-frequency inverter connected in series with the position regulating arrangement, both of which are driven by a DC voltage of a main circuit. A bidirectional rotary displacement converter in the form of a position regulating apparatus controlled by a series circuit is known from German Patent DE-OS 32 20 423, which is operated by a (DC) operating voltage which is applied to a DC voltage input as a constant-current source. In order to accommodate the basic supply voltage, a series circuit having a position regulating arrangement which has a switchable transistor and an inductor is connected with the DC voltage input in parallel with the basic supply voltage.. 97, ba244e880a
